Forecast for Friday 21 Jun 2024

Weather: Cloudy through the early hours with patchy drizzle. Then a mainly cloudy day with a few showers. The best of any hazy sunny spells in the afternoon across northern and eastern ranges. Patchy drizzle then arriving in the west later.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: 40% rising to 70% in the afternoon, best chance northern Cairngorms. Then decreasing 30% in the evening.

Low cloud and visibility: Visibility occasionally moderate or poor overnight in patchy drizzle. Cloud bases 600-800m to start will lift to summit level through the morning with occasional breaks in the afternoon. Visibility will be good or moderate below cloud bases, perhaps briefly falling poor in showers. Cloud bases will then lower in the evening from the west, with visibility poor at times in drizzle, but staying mostly dry in the east.
